

Do You Want To Be Another Internet Statistic?

You see them all over the internet, promises of riches and wealth, minimal work required, our system does it all for you....I know you have seen them. What THEY should saying is, only 5% of our members are succeeding in building financial freedom, but we still need the 95% to fund our life style. I find it amusing that someone who has not experience in building teams, leveraging world wide resources and was broke three years ago is now going to make everyone around them rich....It is not going to happen.

The failure rate in most programs stems from their inadequate training, in most cases they are not using cutting edge technology, nor are they teaching wealth building techniques. Instead they are focusing on getting sales and that is only on small part of the overall picture. Do yourself a favor and commit to finding someone to show you the way.

You should not be scared of failing. You should be scared of doing nothing. You see doing nothing will almost guarantee you that you will retire like 97% of the other Americans and have to live on a significantly reduced budget. To me this is not living it is existing. If you are serious about building financial freedom, then read on and take action.

If you have not started a home based business, then you are being left behind. Most experts agree that in order to reduce your tax burden, you need to earn money as a business owner rather than an employee. If you do not have a good tax accountant, find one immediately. With Corporate models changing each and everyday, you no longer have the safety net that you once had. With the soaring costs of fuel, food, and about all other things, you have taken a pay cut. What are you going to do to turn this situation around?

The great thing about the good old US of A, is that anyone can become anything they set their mind to, if you work smart and put in the effort to achieve more. Never before in the history of mankind has their been so much opportunity available to the average person. With the World Wide Web at everyone's finger tips, you can accomplish anything you desire. Will you take the action necessary to reach your goals and dreams or will you continue to fail to prepare properly for your future.

If you want to be successful, you must know your income verses expenses each day. Being in business means that you are on top of your finances. If you are using a sheet of paper or excel file, you are wasting valuable time. The system you choose needs to show you how to do this automatically. Those systems are out there, use them. If you mentor does not show you these systems, get rid of your mentor.

How do you currently track your income verses expenses? You don't?...Then start... There are some system that will do this effortlessly once you set them up. Set yourself up for success and get to making money.

Most of the mentors or up line characters are over their heads. They do not have effective systems in place to assist new members and current members in reaching maximum success Do not settle for mediocrity as this is your future you are building.

Most gurus will tell you to go to elance.com or another site and your outsourcing problems are over. Nothing could be farther than the truth. You could spend 10s of thousands of dollars learning these systems. Your mentor should be teaching you to effectively use these systems.

Your journey to building financial freedom starts today. Do not procrastinate for it is the generations that follow you that will pay the higher price. Make your decision to be free and make it happen. It comes down to the choice you make!

About the Author

href='http://www.stopmakingothersrich.com/'>Global Mentor

Source: <http://uniquefinancialarticles.com>